KC NEWS

KC have been loving using magnetic letters as an extra tool during our literacy learning! During literacy groups, kids have the job of choosing a decodable word card, reading the word (by saying the sounds and sliding them together), and then building the word using magnetic letters, before finally writing the word themselves! We are focussing on making sure that we say each the sound each time we point to, pick up or write a letter to really make sure the connection between letters and sounds sticks in our brains. KC have also been working together to begin writing sentences ... you will see LOTS more of this next term!
